The Moulin du Château de Horgues

The story of a passion

A favorite

In 2018, Noëline and Vincent fell in love when they visited the Château de Horgues which was looking for a buyer.

With their five children, a family adventure begins!

To cope with the major renovation work to come on the estate, they decided to offer the outbuildings for rental.

A stately castle

The first stones of the castle probably date from the 11th century.

Acquired by the Count of Lavedan from the Count of Bigorre in 1274, the manorial building remained in the same family until 2018!

What to do ?

Discover the Hautes-Pyrénées

Want to unwind in the fresh air?

The Hautes-Pyrénées form a unique massif in France: lower than the Alps, the Pyrenean relief is more massive, forming a barrier between the Ocean and the Mediterranean.

This unique configuration isolates the numerous deep valleys, true natural microcosms, still preserved by this stone wall.

A wild and preserved nature that encourages hiking and a total change of scenery.
